INTRODUCTION TO THE JUNIOR A SUPPLEMENT

PLAYER RESPONSIBILITY

The Junior A Supplement has been created to protect junior-aged hockey players and provide the best opportunity for their continued development. It is critical that you, the Junior A player, read and understand this document and what it means to you. Specific negative and high-risk behavior has been targeted to ensure that your hockey experience takes place in the safest and most competitive environment possible.

As a player you must take control of your actions and respect both the rules of the game and your opponent. The Junior A Supplement has been created for your safety. Controlling your actions and behavior on the ice is what defines you as a player during your development.

The Junior A Supplement brings accountability to coaches and players for any negative actions that may thwart the development of our players and the Junior A game itself. Your responsibility is to understand the consequences of these negative actions and the subsequent discipline that shall be enforced.

You can develop as an athlete in this environment and benefit from the safe and fair environment that the Junior A Supplement provides for all involved. We ask that you take the time to evaluate your priorities as a responsible player and read this document in its entirety. Your understanding of the Junior A Supplement shall lead you to an improved hockey development experience.

THE JUNIOR A COACH AND PLAYER

The game today has evolved due to the effort and expertise of our coaches and team staff. Junior A hockey has had unprecedented growth in the areas of player development and advancement, educational opportunities, professional opportunities and an increased profile in elite hockey circles. Make no mistake – OUR COACHES ARE RESPECTED TRUSTEES OF THE GAME.

At the Junior A level, coaches need to win and players need to develop and advance. The resulting relationship between coach and player creates unique challenges that we must address if we are to have success in creating change.

While players and the coaches may begin with the best intentions, the pressure on each to achieve their individual objectives can create an environment where poor decisions are made.

While emotion is what helps make hockey such a great game, we need to ensure that those responsible for guiding and developing players – our coaches – are held responsible for the actions of those under their charge. WE BELIEVE IN OUR PLAYERS.

The Junior A Supplement includes responsibility and emphasis on the role of the coaches and the teams. WE SHALL NOT ALLOW OUR PLAYERS TO BE SACRIFICED IN THE NAME OF WINNING.
THE GAME MUST SELL

Junior A hockey is funded through the support of communities in which our franchises operate; therefore, the product on the ice needs to sell to the fans that purchase tickets as well as the businesses and organizations who sponsor the teams. The game must be entertaining, emotional and played with skill.

The Junior A Supplement protects the integrity of the game by allowing for the emotion and intensity that fans and sponsors want while eliminating the parts of the game that do not align with our goals or that only appeal to the few.
DEFINING BULLYING AND VIOLENCE

BULLYING

Bullying in hockey is an act of repeated aggressive behavior in order to harm another person physically or mentally. Bullying consists of three basic types of abuse – emotional, verbal, and physical. Bullying is characterized by an individual behaving in a certain way to gain power over another person. Examples of bullying can be a high hit to the head; a cheap hit from behind when the victim cannot see it coming; repeated instructions from a figure of authority (coach); a fight either planned or reactionary; verbal taunts or gestures; or any number of other rule infractions that are defined as penalties in hockey.

VIOLENCE

Violence is an act of aggression outside the playing rules that involves the intention to hurt or emerge superior to others. Violence may or may not involve physical injury and is the result of many different motives. Violence may occur because of aggressive intent. Elite sports are based on the compulsion to win, which if not adequately fulfilled can elicit extreme behavioral patterns. Such patterns outside the playing rules are penalized and if required additional discipline measures are imposed on the individual.

ADDRESSING BULLYING AND VIOLENCE IN JUNIOR A HOCKEY – SOLUTIONS FOR TODAY’S GAME

In addressing bullying and violence in Junior A hockey we developed the following criteria.

- A proactive bullying/violence prevention program for Junior A hockey that aims to reduce the victim/bully issues by increasing awareness of the problem and knowledge about it.
- To achieve active involvement on the part of managers and coaches to reduce these tactics.
- To develop rules and sanctions against bullying/violent behaviour.
- To provide participants with education, support and protection. Education and intervention occurs at practice, the game and on an individual basis.

The blueprint of the program is the Junior A Supplement that isolates and strengthens many Hockey Canada playing rules in an effort to reduce bullying and violence.

OBJECTIVES OF THE PLAYERS HANDBOOK

The objective of the Players Handbook is to provide a resource that players can use to learn about and understand the new regulations contained within the Junior A Supplement. The sections that follow explain to players these regulations and the consequences for playing outside this new set of rules.
KEYS TO SUCCESS

Knowledge: It is important to understand the contents of the Junior A Supplement and how it effects you as a player. You must understand all of the unique applications – especially those that differ from traditional Hockey Canada Rules. It is crucial that you seek clarification from your coaches and ensure you are clear on the intent and consequences of the regulations.

Communication: All Coaches and Players in the CJHL must learn to play under these regulations. As a player, you need to be prepared to communicate effectively and understand that there may be frustration with the new rule emphasis. You must be prepared to adapt to the new expectations that shall be required of you.

Responsibility: It is your responsibility to know and understand all of the rules and the consequences contained within the Junior A Supplement. Further, you are responsible for your actions on the ice and for contributing towards a safe development opportunity for all participants within the league.

Junior A Supplement
Player Handbook

When two players are fully engaged in a fight or wrestling on the ice (each equally involved), the result will be that both players will be assessed a Major penalty plus a Game Misconduct for fighting and both are ejected from the game.

However, the rules specifically state that one player may be assessed a Major plus a Game Misconduct for fighting and the opposing player a Minor for roughing or perhaps not assessed any penalty. In this case, the player receiving the Major penalty would also receive an extra Minor penalty as instigator as well as being ejected from the game.

In the event that one player makes no attempt to retaliate other than to protect or defend himself, and in the opinion of the referee does not engage in the fight, one player may be assessed a Major penalty plus a Game Misconduct for fighting and the opposing player a Minor for roughing or perhaps not assessed any penalty. In this case the player receiving the Major penalty would also receive an extra Minor penalty as instigator.
SUMMARY

The game of hockey, especially at the Junior A level, is the best game in the world. The experience of competing and achieving with a group of like-minded young men is difficult, if not impossible to match in any other sporting endeavour. All of the participants in the game have an important role to play. The role of the League Office and its administrators is to enforce the rules and regulations. More importantly, it is to create a game environment that is safe for the players, but also challenges them to enhance their hockey skill development.

The Junior A Supplement shall make the game safer and shall provide enhanced development opportunities for all players.

PLAYER RELEASE POLICY

It is important for players to know that their team is forbidden from releasing them if the player is under suspension. This means that players cannot be demoted or released outright until the suspension has been served in full by the player. If a player is traded between Member Teams or Leagues, he will be required to complete his suspension prior to being eligible to compete for his new team. This applies at all times of the season including the January 10 roster deadline. In addition to the above, if players are traded to a team in another province the accumulation totals for all suspend-able offenses follow with the player to his new team.
SUSPENDED PLAYER RELEASE POLICY

The purpose of this policy is to prevent Member Teams and Leagues from using the Junior A Supplement as a means to treat Suspended Players as “throw-away commodities”.

Member Teams governed by the Junior A Supplement are prohibited from releasing a rostered player who is serving a Member League suspension. A player who is under suspension while rostered on a Member Team may not be demoted or released outright until their suspension has been served in full.

A suspended player who is transferred to another Member Team or League must complete his suspension before being eligible to compete for their new team. Any penalties, misconducts or suspensions accumulated while competing for a Member Team shall follow the player whenever they are transferred during the playing season. This rule applies at all times of the season, including the January 10 roster deadline. Furthermore, each Member Team and League agrees that they will uphold and enforce any suspension issued by any other Member League.
